National Recognition
Dear Members and Advisers,

First and foremost, I want to thank all the members, advisers, and judges for making this year’s National Leadership Conference one that broke records. With over 12,880 attendees, our 75th anniversary was one to remember. From having fun at Disneyland to refreshing the finalists list at five in the morning, we certainly left a Legacy of Leadership in Anaheim, California.

But in the spirit of Dr. Hamden Forkner, the success of our organization depends on setting new goals and expectations. Your National Officer team was hard at work during the national officer training in Reston, Virginia. We came together to discuss how we can Elevate Your Future this year. You can visit our Program of Work under the National Officer’s page on fbla-pbl.org.

This year’s Program of Work is ambitious. We’re excited to implement new programs that will help you Elevate Your Future — covering topics from recruitment and retention to legislative relationships. We encourage any input from members and advisers. You can request a Google Hangout call with any National Officer via the National Officers page on the fbla-pbl.org website, or you can share your ideas with FBLA by visiting ideas.fbla-pbl.org.

This year, we’re excited to launch an enhanced partnership with STEM Premier, whose focus is bringing students, colleges, and companies together to network with each other. This is a great opportunity to get recognized for all your hard work in FBLA and network directly with colleges.

Last year, we left our Legacy of Leadership. This year, we’re prepared to Elevate Your Future, for all of the more than 250,000 members who call FBLA-PBL their organization.

This all starts with you. How will you Elevate Your Future?

Max Michel

Division Exclusive Programs

State Officer Track
Each NFLC will feature an exclusive workshop track for FBLA state officers. State teams will learn to use national programs & social media; recruit & retain members; and network with FBLA national officers and other state officer teams.

FBLA Foundations
Held in all three NFLC cities, FBLA Foundations offers FBLA freshmen and sophomores a chance to learn about FBLA-PBL and the leadership opportunities available. Members will also network with national officers.

FBLA-Middle Level (New Orleans, LA)
The FBLA-Middle Level Program will be held exclusively at the New Orleans NFLC. FBLA-Middle Level members attend NFLC sessions on Friday, then have specialized workshops on Saturday. Watch the FBLA-PBL website and your email for more information about unique workshops designed especially for FBLA-Middle Level members and advisers!

Online Registration
Online registration is available at fbla.org/NFLC. To preregister, registrations must be entered online by the end of the regular registration period. Direct questions to conferencemanager@fbla.org. Make your school’s accounting department aware of the deadline dates. Complete your registration early to take advantage of early bird savings.

National SPONSORS & PARTNERS

Are YOU ready to build on your leadership skills? Are YOU ready to apply and practice your leadership abilities? Join the millions of students across the USA in the Lead2Feed Student Leadership Program.

Lead2Feed was inspired by a leader on leadership, co-founder, former chairman and CEO of Yum! Brands, David Novak.

Lead2Feed gives you the opportunity to lead, create, and implement team projects that meet a need in your community. You will apply leadership lessons through service. Student teams enter their projects in the Lead2Feed Challenge for an opportunity to win more than $300,000 in charity grants and technology packages to schools. (Your national service project, March of Dimes, qualifies as a nonprofit organization.)

Ask your adviser to join the fastest-growing FREE leadership program at Lead2Feed.org/join

LEAD2FEED

STEM Premier is an online platform connecting the next generation of talent (age 13+) with colleges and companies across the country. FBLA and FBLA-ML members can join and create a digital profile showcasing their skills, talents, and accomplishments. From there, they can share their profile, link up with mentors, and request the FBLA or FBLA-ML Digital Badge to be recognized as an official FBLA Member on STEM Premier.

STEM Premier users also gain access to free resources, tools like our automatic résumé generator, and get matched up with over $20 billion in scholarship opportunities.

Members can join for free today by visiting www.stempremier.com/fbla or www.stempremier.com/fblaml.

Taking FBLA to the Hill
by FBLA Mountain Plains VP Ryan James Solis

On July 20, 2017, your FBLA National Officer Team took to the halls of Congress. Many highly impactful meetings were held with congressional staff as well as directly with national legislators such as Rep. Bradley Byrne of Alabama, Rep. Beto O’Rourke of Texas, and Senator McCaskill of Missouri.

The response to our meetings was highly positive; many members of Congress were impressed by the magnitude and impact of FBLA. In addition, the National Officer Team met the chamber of the House Small Business Committee led by Brad Howard, a congressional chief of staff, former PBL member and current PD member. He discussed how FBLA-PBL impacts the future of students.

This year’s National Officer Team has made the advancement of relations with local, state, and federal governments a priority. As FBLA anticipates, we will continue to grow relationships with the public sector at these levels. Whether you are a student or adviser, you can make an impact that will elevate FBLA’s future. Synthesizing new partnerships or expanding established relations with local and state governments increases support of FBLA.

This allows our organization to impact the lives of more young Americans. One of our goals as an organization is to develop character, prepare for useful citizenship, and foster patriotism. This is a goal that legislative bodies throughout the nation share, and more importantly, is a goal that members can achieve through promoting FBLA on their own endeavor. Being a member of FBLA, you are a representative of an organization that assists students in becoming leaders in business, community, and school; and legislators are interested in your story. Becoming an advocate for FBLA may seem difficult, however, it is a rewarding endeavor. Here are ten tips on how to meet with your legislator:

1. Check your legislator’s website for how to request a meeting with your representative. (Do this weeks in advance, as members of Congress tend to have busy schedules.)
2. Prepare a quick elevator speech about FBLA and its impact.
3. Review FBLA’s goals, mission, and history, as well as the National Officer’s Program of Work.
4. A day before your meeting, call your legislator to confirm your meeting.
5. During your meeting make sure you speak to your audience. Legislators are interested in organizations that seek to advance education, community service, and the lives of young Americans. Thus, make these focal points in your remarks.
6. Explain how FBLA has elevated your future as a student and as a community member.
7. Make sure to leave your business card or contact information with your legislator and explain that you hope to continue working together to advance the cause of FBLA.
8. Ask for a picture with your legislator.
9. Inform local, state, and national FBLA chapters about your meeting.
10. Post on social media about your meeting and how it impacted you.

Speaking to your legislator about FBLA may make you feel nervous and unsure, but always remember the fact that taking initiative to meet with your legislator is a testament to your character and shows that you are a future leader. You may feel unsure, but you are not alone. My sophomore year, I decided to meet with my legislator to talk about FBLA. I wasn’t a national officer nor a state officer, I was just a member of an organization that had a strong impact on me. And although I was nervous, the meeting went well and I was glad that not only was I able to lobby for FBLA, but I knew that by me taking this initiative I was one step closer to becoming a future business leader. You don’t have to be a state officer or national officer, you just have to believe in what you say.

After all, meeting with your legislator will help you Elevate Your Future with FBLA.
